

Indus American Bank introduces Remote Deposit for check deposits from home and office

August 24, 2007

Indus American Bank has introduced remote deposit for their customer convenience of depositing checks right from the comfort of home or office . Remote Deposit streamlines the entire bank deposit process by using a PC at any desired location.

Remote Deposit includes deposit preparation, balancing, record retention and accounts receivables. All that is needed is a computer with a secured internet connection and a Remote Deposit check scanner available through Indus American Bank. Simply scan all the checks and with a click of a mouse they are automatically deposited into the Indus American Bank Business Checking account.

The benefits of remote deposit include faster check deposit, improved cash flow due to streamlined deposit process, improved timeliness and accuracy of posting and financial reporting, elimination of courier charges and personal delivery of checks. Kevin Lenihan, CEO of Indus American Bank states “Remote Deposit is one more giant step taken by Indus American Bank to provide convenience to the community. It also broadens our reach beyond the local geographic area”.
